

SAFE FEED/SAFE FOOD CERTIFICATION PROGRAM WEBCAST

March 26, 2009

2:30 to 4 p.m. EDST

AFIA is offering its members and interested non-members the opportunity to participate in AFIA's next webcast of a Technical Symposium.

The webinar will cover the entire Safe Feed/Safe Food Certification Program and provide testimonials from SF/SF veterans on their decision-making process to enter the program and how to market it once certified.

After the broadcast, each registered participant will be sent a copy of the webcast in CD format. Questions may be submitted by the participants before, during or after the webcast. This webcast will be approximately 90 minutes in length, including the question period.

To register, go to www.afia.org, complete the attached form and forward it to AFIA by March 26, 2009. The price is $25 for both AFIA members and non-members. This price is per downlink site (computer). The broadcast will be recorded by AFIA, and a CD of the broadcast is included in the registration cost.

Webcast Procedures: After confirmation of payment, AFIA will forward the Web site address, teleconference number and password to access the webcast. AFIA's webcast supplier will provide specific instructions for use and how to check your computer to ensure the latest software is loaded.

To access the webcast, each participant will go to a Web address provided after registration, enter a password and other information and be placed into the live webcast. AFIA's webcast supplier allows for sound to be sent via your computer (if you are utilizing speakers), so no phone is necessary. If you choose to use the phone for listening, a number will be provided.

On your computer screen, you will see the first of the slides to be used. You will hear the presenter either over the phone or your computer and view his/her slides online. All lines will be muted from the start. If a participant wishes to ask a question during the presentation, simply type the question using your computer keyboard. Questions will be kept in a queue and answered as time permits or after the webcast via email.
