EVENT DETAILS

WHAT IS FII?

The Feed Industry Institute (FII), is a short-course taught by feed industry experts. It is geared for feed and feed ingredient professionals interested in expanding their knowledge of the industry. The conference features representatives of all segments of the feed industry addressing timely issues and providing insight to a variety of course material. The program features a pre- and post-test to capture what students learn throughout the course.

It is a unique opportunity for members of the industry to explore critical topics including:

- Components of feed;
- Nutrition;
- Feed safety;
- Feed and ingredient processing;
- Feed transportation, distribution and sales;
- International and domestic business market.

Not only is FII an important educational opportunity to learn about the most up-to-date practices in the feed industry, it is also the perfect setting to network with your industry peers.

WHY FII?

Participating in FII is an investment in knowledge and productivity. Attendance at FII with a team of colleagues can dramatically increase the value of the experience for an organization. Upon returning to work, you will have the ability to implement the course material and master the challenges most vital to company success.
