

AFIA MEMBER INTEREST GROUP SIGN-UP

MEMBER INTEREST GROUPS (MIGs): Member Interest Groups represent specific areas across the American Feed Industry Association membership. Their role is to share information with members in the group and provide input and data, which assists the AFIA staff in developing issue positions and comments to government or other member services. The AFIA strongly encourages each member company to identify the appropriate persons within their business that can participate in the MIG that best represents each firm's interests and expertise.

MIGs are established for each of the following business areas (including those represented by a committee):

ALFALFA PURPOSE: Promotes the usage of processed alfalfa products and other forage crops; disseminates commercial and economic information; supports alfalfa research and updates members.
